Museums in Chiang Mai: Their Role in the Preservation and Communication of Natural and Cultural Heritage with Rebecca Weldon, retired advisor to museums in Northern Thailand.

Find out about the development of museums in Chiang Mai, and learn about their role in preserving and communicating the natural and cultural heritage of the northern region. Discover and learn about many of the smaller niche museums that you may not have known about before.

Rebecca Weldon is a trained museologist with a long history of working for and with museums in Chiang Mai and Chiang Rai.

This talk is the first of our museum series, and beginning in June Rebecca Weldon will lead a monthly excursion to various local museums
