LLL Payap invites you to learn about the life style of the Lanna (Northern Thai) people, and the history and making of celadon pottery. Participants in this day-long excursion will visit Chiang Mai Celadon in Doi Saket. Since 1989, Khun Tassanee Yada (a graduate of Payap University) has devoted her time and energy to working with celadon ceramic pottery. In 2015, she moved her business from town to launch Chiang Mai Celadon in the rural area of Doi Saket where she grew up. Khun Tassanee will be on hand to welcome you and will explain the history of celadon and you will have an opportunity to see the many artists there creating, carving, and painting celadon pottery on site. You will also experience making a local sweet called Kao Tom Mad, and creating your own art work from clay, or painting on pottery which you can take home. Transportation to Chiang Mai Celadon and a Thai lunch will also be included.
