

THE BANGKOK – CHIANG MAI RAILWAY

An illustrated talk by Graham Jefcoate about the history and significance of its construction

On January 1, 1922, after 15 years of construction, the Chiang Mai Railway Station finally opened. In this illustrated talk, you will learn about the Northern Line project that linked the northern capital by rail with Bangkok (1907-1922), and the significance of the project for Chiang Mai and the north in the years that followed. The talk will include important background information for those attending the rail excursion to Lampang on Friday, August 16.
